Solons out to probe all Sulpicio sea mishaps

By Christian V. Esguerra and Gil C. Cabacungan Jr.

THE BEYOND REPORT THAT Sulpicio Lines Inc. has been involved in 48 maritime accidents in its 28 years in operation (spatial outages) in the House of Representatives provided.

Speaker Prospero Nograles said the ongoing congressional inquiry into the lapses of these tragedies—the June 21 sinking of MV Princess of the Stars that cost 260 lives—should be expanded to cover all sea mishaps involving Sulpicio Lines.

Albay Rep. Edcel Lagana, chair of the appropriations committee, said Congress should take over the franchising of shipping lines and cancel Sulpicio Lines' operation.

"This is an act of socialism on the part of Sulpicio," he said, the speaker, referring to the ownership of accidents involving the company, as recorded in the maritime information database www.shipdata.com and reported by the bureau on Monday.

Since 1980, Sulpicio Lines vessels have reportedly been involved in seven sinking incidents and six collisions with other ships, on land caught fire, severe hull engine problems and stalled at sea and 19 had fire aground.

Sulpicio has own law of the sea

IN THE WAKE OF THE MURDER inquiry into the June 21 sinking of the MV Princess of the Stars, its owner, Sulpicio Lines, has so far emerged virtually unscathed.

It has not been held to account for the disaster.

The inquiry both in Congress and by government bureaucrats and localities during the past two weeks have relied on the cold state agencies charged with ensuring public safety on maritime travel.

They have allowed Sulpicio Lines officials to get off lightly by focusing on public officials.

Standing ovation for Lea in historic concert

By Ruben V. Niguelas

LOS ANGELES—SHE HAS LONG MADE her mark as an inspirational artist. Still, it was at it she had captured a whole new world.

Lea Salonga earned a standing ovation at the end of her historic concert on Friday evening at Los Angeles' iconic entertainment landmark and world-class performing arts venue, the Walt Disney Concert Hall.

A sold-out crowd cheered Salonga as she became the first Filipino performer to have a solo show at architect Frank Gehry's following steel-clad masterpiece.

Through Salonga's original vocal tones, Filipino lyrics of rock OPM standards like "Hibangin Mo" by Jimmy Santiago Cruz (by Jose Mari Chan), "Dina Muli Mo" by Gery and Angel Valenciano, and "Bakit Labis Kasing Mahal" by Alex Mallin reverberated inside the beautiful wood-paneled hall.

The normally staid venue—home of the world-renowned Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra—came to life as the mostly Filipino audience, encouraged by Salonga, sang along to the Filipino songs.

Salonga's rendition of songs that have distinguished her multi-ethnic career, including "Tatlong," "TV Give My Love to You," "My Own" and "I Dreamed a Dream," earned thunderous applause.

A volunteer from the audience, who identified himself as GRL, received the evening's first standing ovation. The American, routinely picked by Salonga from the audience, was surprisingly good in singing with the singer her popular duet, "I Wanna Be Your Man," the Oscar-nominated theme song from Disney's animated film, "Aladdin."

Backed by an orchestra of 79 musicians, Salonga also made the crowd swoon with her versions of "The Way You Look Tonight," "Someone to Watch Over Me," "Tajiri the Little Boy," "Lagunay" and "Everybody Says I'm Fine."

As a preview of her coming show "Cinderella," which opens at the Cultural Center

LEA Salonga's milestone performance drew thunderous applause.

CATHOLIC POLITICIANS who push for abortion should not be allowed to receive Holy Communion because they are "in a situation of sin," according to a top leader of the Catholic Church.

On June 10, Archbishop Jesus Dosales III issued a pastoral letter saying that politicians who consistently campaign for and endorse permissive abortion should be taught about the Church position.

Prems should also tell the politicians that, unless they stop their pro-abortion actions, they should not enter on receiving the Holy Eucharist because they will just be doing, Dosales said in a report posted on the website of the Catholic Bishops' Conference of the Philippines (CBCP).

Bishop Desiderio (Bibang), CBCP public affairs officer, said that the CBCP as a whole had yet to discuss the stand on refusing communion to pro-abortion politicians.

Computer headset lets brain control action

SAN FRANCISCO—IT'S MIND over machine: A US high-tech company has created a headset allowing computer game lovers to use their thoughts to move characters and make objects disappear on screen.

Emoti, a San Francisco-based startup company that creates neuroscience and non-pain engineering, said its Epi-gaming headset offered only a glimpse of what the technology had to offer.

"There is no neural barrier from what we can see," Emoti co-founder Tim Le told Agence France-Presse while demonstrating the headset at the firm's office.

"This is the tip of the iceberg for what is possible for us. There will be a convergence of game-based technology and the brain as a new interface—the Holy Grail is the mind," Le said.

Gamers will be able to get their hands on the gadget in time for the winter holiday season, according to the company.

The Epi-gaming headset features 16 sensors that press against a user's scalp to measure electrical activity in a brain using electroencephalography. A built-in gyro tracks head movement.

The sensors also register sound, mood and facial expressions, feeding the data in computer software that "translates" to match readings.

'Antilife' pols must be refused communion'

But it is in the opinion of the Church that those who have engaged in abortion and those who have participated in such an act are barred from receiving Holy Communion, Bignone said.

They have to be forgiven first by a bishop before the prohibition could be lifted.

Donato's personal letter came days after the CBCP said it was also not for 'antilife' bills in the House of Representatives.

Bishop Norberto Jaillon said as a priest leading after the two-day CBCP plenary assembly ended last week that the bishops would lobby against the bills.

Atty. Rep. Edcel Lagman, principal author of the reproductive health and population management bill in the House, said Donato was mistaken in not issuing a pastoral letter denying Holy Communion to legislators proposing pro-abortion bills.

It began with, in one among the members of the 14th Congress is expiating penance into abortion, Lagman said.

"It is a grave penalty for a politician act," he said the House, referring to Donato's personal letter.

Lagman said a central task of his bill would be to "take away a continuing prohibition abortion."

Antilife Dip 68

"They are blinded by their ideology," Lagman said, referring to Church leaders and pro-life activists among pro-life lawmakers opposing pro-life legislation.

"We have repeatedly said to the Catholic doctrine on life, pro-life, and not part of the issue for antilife prohibition and population management. The bill I proposed has been passed in its entirety, but it is a majority majority of the Congress," Lagman said.

He said his bill had been approved by the commission on health and population and family relations. It is expected to be introduced in the House of Representatives when Congress convenes on July 28.

The bill—An Act Providing for a National Policy on Reproductive Health, Reproductive Decision Making, and Reproductive Health—has been introduced by a law of 100 members of the House.

It includes a provision for "reproductive education, health and reproductive education." Health education should be taught to "an age-appropriate manner... by adequately trained teachers starting from Grade 5 up to fourth year high school."

The bill also sets aside 13 percent of the "gender and development" budget of all government agencies for the operations of the Commission on Population.

27 abortions in 2007
Data on abortions in the country are based on cases by the Bureau of Health Statistics.

It reported last year that nearly half a million women in the Philippines underwent abortion during 2007, according to statistics from the Department of Health.

Doctors said that in 2006, women in the country had more than 200,000 induced abortions, according to a report of 27 abortion per 1,000 women. The average rate in the United States was 28.

Doctors said that most women who had abortions in the Philippines were married, but not Catholic, and had no children. The majority wanted their pregnancy because they cannot afford another child.

The Philippine population, which grew 1.23 percent a year, is projected to hit 90.46 million in 2010.

Public universities

The CBCP website quoted Donato as stating that the decision to refuse communion to pro-abortion politicians was not a compromise or penalty.

But he said it is considered necessary to judge a person's subjective guilt, the bishop said. Rather, it is a reaction to a person's public commitment to receive Holy Communion because of an "objective situation of sin," Donato said.

Bishop Bignone explained that a person who is in an objective situation of sin if he or she persists in his or her sin without repentance or if he or she is provided opportunities for repentance but does not repent.

Citing the Catechism of the Catholic Church, Donato said that a person who is in an objective situation of sin if he or she persists in his or her sin without repentance or if he or she is provided opportunities for repentance but does not repent.

statement and the Church should find a "common ground" on the population management issue instead of continuing over technical positions on the matter.

The Philippine Legislators' Conference on Population and Development, a group of lawmakers, agreed, saying "it is time for the Church and the national government to look beyond the technical positions on population and development."

"They should focus on the issues that are most important to the nation, by concentrating on the immediate passage of a Reproductive Health and Population Management Policy," the declaration said in a statement.

No room for debate

The Church made an abortion issue a focus and leaves no room for debate on either side, according to Donato. But all most issues have the same weight as abortion, he said.

"For example, if a Catholic woman is in a state with the Holy Father on the decision to wage war, he would not be for that war," he said, "but he would not be for that war."

Let's focus relief efforts on the living, says Gordon

By Hector F. Burgos/
Special Writer

DAVAO, CEBU—SEN. RICHARD Gordon, Philippine National Red Cross chief, called yesterday on the government agencies concerned to refocus aid and rehabilitation efforts on helping the people adversely affected by Typhoon "Tisul" in need of recovering in the wake of the passage of the storm.

"While efforts to assist the victims of the passengers and advance the ship should continue, Gordon said more help must be given to the thousands who are still suffering the effects of the storm in Palau, Negros Occidental, Cebu, Negros Oriental, Iloilo, Zamboanga and other areas.

He said he would suggest to the National Disaster Coordinating Council that priority assistance be given to those who were left homeless without food and livelihood and children whose lives were threatened.

"The aid that we are getting is not that significant because the national attention is focused on the victims of the typhoon ship," he said.

The Office of Civil Defense reported that 345 persons died in Western Visayas alone. Some 300 more will be missing and 500 more injured. The flooded affected 2,545 villages and 417,388 families or 2,094,385 persons. At least 30,371 houses were destroyed and 30,000 damaged.

The $300,000 water sanitation facility will provide potable water in Palau, Iloilo, where 60 percent of the population were affected by flooding.

The facility can provide 600 cubic meters of water and supply drinking water to around 40,000 people daily.

Sen. Mayor Rodolfo "Din" Gordon said the facility can also provide water to neighboring Sulu City and the towns of Zamboanga and Marikina.

The water will be sourced from the Agusan River and distributed to water tanks in the barangays, Gordon said.

Rains, possible storm in forecast

WIDE SWATHS OF LUZON WILL EXPERIENCE rain and thunderstorms over the next two days with an active low pressure area hovering east-southeast of northern Luzon, the weather bureau said yesterday.

At 10:30 A.M. Saturday, the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration (PAGASA) said it had monitored the low pressure area 510 km east-northeast of northern Luzon and moving slowly toward Batanes.

Weather specialist Percy Maza said there was possibility the low pressure area would develop into a tropical depression in the next 24 hours.

"Based on our computer models, the prognosis is that the low pressure area will intensify on (Thursday)," Maza said the bureau over the phone yesterday.

'Real' disaster response in Asean seen

WASHINGTON—AFTER MUCH DEBATE, Asia is finally expected to agree to hold its first civilian-military disaster relief exercise with key partners like the United States, France and the European Union.

That will set the stage for real emergency response to disasters, such as the recent cyclone that ravaged Burma (Myanmar) and left 134,000 dead or missing as the country's ruling military junta came under strong criticism for blocking aid efforts.

A ministerial meeting on July 28 in Singapore of the Asian Regional Forum (ARF), then top security leaders, may agree to hold the disaster relief exercise among its 27 member nations as early as 2009, a US official said.

ARF senior officials agreed in May to consider such an exercise that could pave the way for the adoption of the Asian Disaster Reduction Center (ADRC) in Japan, India, the US, Russia and EU member states to help coordinate civilian relief response.

"So I hope that at this meeting, we can move to the next stage...as the point that is agreed upon and planning begins so that it could actually happen as early as next year," US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice said.

"There is genuine interest and enthusiasm for this and the political will is there," he added.

Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice is expected to attend the ARF ministerial talks after dropping the annual gathering in Manila last year, an American official said. Aside from the Asian states of the Philippines, Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, Burma, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam, ARF comprises Australia, Bangladesh, Canada, China, the European Union, India, Japan, South and North Korea, Mongolia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Papua New Guinea, Russia, Sri Lanka, East Timor and the US.

ARF, the principal official forum for security dialogue in Asia, adopted a set of guidelines for disaster relief cooperation at the Manila talks last year.

It also agreed in terms of reference to a crisis comprising the increasing and persistent role of the United Nations in disaster relief cooperation as the Manila talks last year.

It also agreed in terms of reference to a crisis comprising the increasing and persistent role of the United Nations in disaster relief cooperation as the Manila talks last year.

Merced cautioned that certain "technical issues may get in the way" of a multi-ARF disaster relief exercise.

"They include structural issues such as the 'building of one country' or 'building of another'," said State Department official said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"There is a need to have agreement on the 'how' of these issues as a lot of work done already on this in ARF," Merced said. AFP

Neri vs Senate remembered

SOUNDING BOARD

By JOSEPH G. BATTISTO, Jr.

WHEN THE DECISION TO REIN IN SENATOR Neri was made, one question that senators asked was whether the decision could be as damaging to the Senate as it would be to President Arroyo. Arroyo's decision legitimized the independence of the Senate.

In April 1995, the Senate voted 12-10 to impeach Neri, while in the House of Representatives, Neri was impeached by a 21-19 vote.

Neri vs Senate was a landmark case. It was a landmark case because it was the first time that the Senate had impeached a senator.

Quarry workers seek Panlilio aide's ouster

CITY OF SAN FERNANDO—SOME 200 employees opposed to the quarry special ordinance of the Panlilio administration entered their third day of protest here on Saturday refusing to leave the picket line until Gov. Educo Panlilio ordered their dismissal to restore provincial administrative integrity.

They breached the picket at the capitol's Astorio Park on Thursday in sympathy for the eight supervisors detained at quarry checkpoints by Delos for alleged irregularities. Two weeks ago, Delos arrested four checkers for the same reasons.

Their leader, Edmundo de Leon, said the protest was "mainly sparked by the maladministration" by Delos.

Delos denies, one of those detained, recalled that on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m., Delos called at least 21 quarry personnel to the office of the Insular Director a Lieutenant at the provincial capitol.

"We were asked to sign papers to hand over our livelihoods, our incomes. They said we had to give the cut keys. They then said: 'Waiting here, you are not supposed to operate because quarry supervisors must be the same value as the checkers. They also agree with this, you have to go to my office.' You left. Nobody released the bond immediately. We said, 'These are corrupt supervisors, we are not here.'"

Recalling photos, Delos said Accor's account was "not accurate."

"In that meeting, I publicly asked them to turn over the radios and the cut keys. I gathered them because we were going to identify the radio numbers and register the monitoring system per shift in each of the 30 towns from one of the elements. I told them that it was immaterial now if your name is supervisor or checker since everyone has a radio-grade of 17 P, 500," he said.

That if it produced was the responsibility, he said, that he go. I won't hold their opinion you. Since they were not grasping themselves I felt the reason is the resistance to their audit and the quarry supervisors. When I arrested, they said we have their work. I asked the supervisors to come, "he said.

De Leon said he was absent in the morning but denied the account of Delos and the others.

Delos said she was not there with them and reached picket in between.

Except saying that several incidents of illegal quarry operations "were widespread" in the City of San Fernando, Pinaricabalan and Lufan, Delos declined to discuss further details on the extent of the liability of non-supervisors.

De Leon explained that Delos did not involve the government contractors of the Delos in the investigation.

Delos, a lawyer, said a number of informants obtained during her investigation were "not heard."

Panlilio said he approved the termination and dismissal to ensure that the regulatory system was protected from any malfeasance or irregularity. Quarry collection reached $330 million in 2007.

Negotiations with the Delos group had started in Pinaricabalan, he said.

The picket line was peaceful the morning morning activities. The collection of the P14 fee and an FIDIS administrator fee in every town of the province continues to be made by the provincial treasurer's office.

Panlilio said the company plan to be working has remained because the 307 quarry employees continue to pay P5,000 monthly.

He asked the provincial board to request the province to Grade 5 (P7,800) and Grade 7 (P9,800), for a total of P223.2 million including overtime pay.

The board has yet to approve these items, which were included in the province's P100 million supplemental budget, he said. Danilo Grijas, Assistant General Manager,

Sibuyan fishers sail despite ban

MAN PERSAMANG, SIBUYAN Island—Despite the ban on the harvest and sale of fish in Sibuyan waters, some fishermen agreed to sail and catch fish even for their own consumption.

Fishermen Jose Pineda said Tuesday he saw some fishermen on board two boats last Monday night to catch fish.

He did not join the group because he had his fishing boat when "3-phases" "3-phases" work.

The ban would not prevent fishermen, Pineda said, because it is their only means of livelihood.

"I would not join them when they have nothing to eat," he added.

The ban actually is in line with the reality of the "Sibuyan" and the past again, he added. A fishermen also denied violating the ban said the fishermen caught about 10 kilos of fish the night before and distributed them to their neighbors.

Some of the fish were sold at P50 per kilo since the previous P100 if there were people wanting to buy.

A local fish trader said, he said, a new P110 or almost half of its previous price of P220.

"We wait for their tomorrow morning at the shore, you will see many fish," he said.

San Francisco Mayor "Narciso" Francisco said they would strictly enforce the ban on fishing as there were reports of a fishkill in the village of Capiatan.

He said the fishkill was only reported on Tuesday but it happened earlier than it was last to verify.

"We want our police in the site but they have not sent the fishkill," he said, adding it may be impossible for them to verify its connection to the incident.

After receiving reports of fishing despite the fish ban, Tandang said she has ordered the town police to conduct night patrols and make public announcements that the fishing ban had not yet been lifted.

Last Monday, an official of the Bureau of Fisheries and Aquaculture said that their water sampling about 200 meters from the coastline of Capiatan. After earlier the Capiatan Fishermen's Guild,

Militant fishermen's group asks commercial fishers to join strike

LOONA CITY—THE PANAMANGING LUBAN Fishing Movement (Lubang Magsaysay), a nationwide alliance of militant fishermen, has appealed to operators of commercial fishing vessels to join their planned strike in the last week of August against what they said were the unreasonable increases in the prices of petroleum products.

The Panamanging Luban said the country's backward fishing industry was suffering further from weekly losses in the prices of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Magnolia, Ginebra draw first blood

UNDER THE SWEAT (Powers Com. Inc., Antipolo)
 4:50 p.m.—San Carlos vs. Barangay Ginebra
 7:30 p.m.—Coca-Cola vs. Magnolia

By Manojo K. Castillo

LOVEY TUGADER SCORED 20 POINTS that went with a career-high 22 rebounds last night to lead Magnolia to a 100-96 victory over Coca-Cola and draw first blood in the Smart Points Cup quarterfinal match up between preseasonal favorites at the Smart Arena. Manojo K. Castillo also had 20 rebounds and three more leads finished with 12 points or more in the Barangay Ginebra-led contest early and were hot up on more within another nine of ending a semifinal run with the 20.

"In a close game, this [win] is good," Magnolia coach Sir Tugader said. "But it will show them anything. We still have to win another game."

In the second game, Ginebra led 30 points and grabbed seven rebounds as Barangay Ginebra pulled front in double-digit first-half deficit and then held off the Coca-Cola to the victory, 93-83, to also grab a 1-0 lead in their quarterfinal series.

The two quarterfinal pairings go on to meet in game 2 Wednesday. Magnolia scored the victory over with Clayton Delgado riding the bench because of a minor-league injury and the debut of the Barangay Ginebra held the usually prolific Arvin Sison in his most offensive game.

Sison, who went into the game averaging 22.8 points and 11.7 rebounds, was held to just six and seven and saw support from the team was compromised in his debut after scoring just eight points.

And the two-point bridge which many saw as the key to the team's rebounding could very well be their undoing.

"We somehow played good defense and caught him on a bad night as the game goes," said Tugader of Sison's defensive effort.

Teen loses SUV to thieves

By Mark Rosales

A TEENAGER WHO IDENTIFIED HIMSELF as police investigator as a daughter of former Senate Vice Gov. Guio "Gavi" Singson reported the loss of her sport utility vehicle to three armed men in Quezon City yesterday morning.

Kindred Singson, 31, of Villa Verde I, Purok 12B, went to the Anti-Corruption Unit (ACU) of the Quezon City Police Office (QCPO) in Camp Serrano to formally lodge her complaint against the thieves who took her black Toyota Fortuner.

Insp. Angela Nicolas, QCPO Asst. Chief, said the teenager introduced herself to his investigators as Singson's daughter.

PCI Michael Francisco, anti-corruption, said Singson, who arrived shaken and covered by her incident, came accompanied by her driver, Venancio Britos.

According to Singson, Fortuner was inside the 3075 DDT Road, waiting for the teenager who was going to a family reunion at the corner of Santa De Guia and Santa Monica Avenue in Shopping Laguna Manila at around 6:30 a.m. yesterday.

When Singson boarded the vehicle, three armed men waiting at the road suddenly appeared from nowhere and dragged her out of the Fortuner.

Singson said the car drivers, who were armed with an M16 assault rifle and two caliber three-point-two, also ordered Britos to alight from the SUV.

Hot Eagles out front; Falcons rip Bulldogs

By Joanne W. Pope

THIS TIME, IT'S THE JERRED-BIG EAGLES who are making winning a routine. Robert Alonzo, just a sophomore freshman by American big man in the Eagles club at the University of the East, Manila, 44-38, promising to remain as the only sophomore in the 7th UNAP men's basketball tournament in the Philippines here.

"We pulled out late and it's not just our size at the front, but also the size of our growth," said coach Norman Mark after the Eagles' victory over the Bulldogs.

"It's a good start. We're on track with our goal, which is to make it to the Final Four. I know that usually during the UNAP season, it's a tough road. So it's good to get off to a good start and have a low-key victory."

Mexican Solis foils Donaire's historic bid

FLORNO-AMERICAN GLENN DONAIRE fell short in his attempt to make history yesterday morning by losing the IBF light-flyweight title to Oliver Solis, who won by a decisive unanimous decision in Mexico, Mexico.

"Donaire won the aggression and the fight, but he was outboxed here and there," reported the IBF's official scorer, who was in Las Vegas, who watched him the night before. Solis, who was a near-fallout, scored 119-115, 119-115 and 120-107.

"The fight was not what I needed to win," said Donaire, who did not even say he was not prepared to win. He was not prepared to win, but he was not prepared to win.

RP forges deal for more flights to Netherlands

By Rex T. Obach

THE PHILIPPINES SECURED MORE flights and cargo slots with the Netherlands to serve the growing demand from overseas residents and tourists, according to Department Secretary Leonida Morales.

"Right now, 82.0 of the flights to the European slot line with flights to serve Manila and Amsterdam. We hope this new slot will allow Philippine carriers to serve Europe and give more options to our overseas workers, who travel to the Netherlands and beyond. And it also represents further steps on our side to expand to Clark, our new gateway," Morales said in a statement.

On August 19, 2007, RP and the Netherlands signed a bilateral agreement to increase the number of flights to the Philippines. The old agreement signed in 1999 provided for only two weekly flights to Manila and four weekly flights to Amsterdam.

With the new flight slots, the new agreement will allow the Philippines to increase the number of flights to the Netherlands. This new agreement will allow the Philippines to increase the number of flights to the Netherlands.

and the carriers flying between the Philippines and the Netherlands can go to a third country before going to Manila and Amsterdam.

The agreement was a major victory for Clark, which did not have a route to the Netherlands until the new agreement. The new agreement will allow the Philippines to increase the number of flights to the Netherlands. This new agreement will allow the Philippines to increase the number of flights to the Netherlands.

Date from the Department of Tourism claims that traffic between Manila and Amsterdam has been increasing from a two-way volume of 186,304 in 2003 to 206,270 in 2006 and 201,075 in 2007. Load factors also increased steadily from 83 percent in 2003 to 98 percent in 2006 and 99 percent in 2007.

The growth rate of use to residents going into the Philippines from the Netherlands is 3.4 percent and from the rest of Europe, 23.04 percent.

The Philippines also paid for 10,000 Subsidized Economic Return and Investment (SERI) visas for the period from July 1.

A few franchising opportunities in RP

AMONG THE SMALL AND medium scale enterprises, it is the franchising that have the best chance of succeeding at a rate of 60 percent.

This was according to Department of Trade and Industry Secretary Ernesto Mayuga during the recent Philippine International Franchise Conference and Expo.

Initial results of a study by the University of Asia and the Pacific and the Philippine Franchise Association estimate the franchising sector account for 5 percent of the country's total gross domestic product for the years 2005 to 2007, contributing around P137 billion to the local economy.

Below are some flourishing opportunities in the Philippines today.

Monterey equips franchisees

Monterey Franchising Corporation (MFC) recently finished setting this year's second batch of franchisees for its franchise program for Monterey Mosquito.

Monterey General Manager (MGC) Inc. Leo Obispo shared key ingredients for growing businesses during the month-long program. He affirmed the integral role of customer service in keeping customers coming back to the shops. He stressed, "Customers are buying not just new products but are also buying an experience in buying them."

They also franchisees and franchise personnel were trained on critical success factors in franchise operations such as financial customer service, staff management and customer training and communication.

Monterey Franchising Corporation began as a cattle farm in California in 1963. The business grew and was eventually acquired in 1986 by San Miguel Corporation. With its "face in market" concept, the Filipino consumer is a source of quality means for every month. It pioneered the offering of value-added services like free delivery services while providing complimentary food products alongside its bread, pork, lamb and chicken items.

Monterey Mosquito franchising began in 1996. From only five franchisees, it has grown to over 150 outlets. Today, Monterey's franchised mosquito-netting services are located nationwide. Monterey franchisees receive support services such as its product design, Monterey signage, training of staff, operations support and marketing.

Link refilling offer franchise

There was a time when the idea of cartridge ink refilling was frowned upon because of crude systems employed by ink refillers.

Some 12 million cartridges are used in annually around the world, and only some 3 percent were refilled because of fear of damaging printers. They are generic ink, normally use a chip and disrupted the need to weigh and change chips, line loading more harm than good to computer printers.

While most users initial in cost on cartridges and unwilling in preserving the environment, they had no choice but to cope with original product because of the inefficiency of refilling systems.

But with the advent of modern technology, not to mention the growing need to cut cost and environmental wastes, businesses are beginning to offer ink refilling a second look. But is refilling in the increasing number of ink refilling companies in the country today?

"There is a big market for the refilling and remanufacturing industry in the country," says Babyly's (Bocanfranchised, owner franchisee of Cartridge World in the Philippines, one of the leading printers in the market.

Now on its second year, the Australian franchise has brought refilling of cartridges and toners to a higher level using new state-of-the-art environmentally technology.

It refills cartridges quickly and remanufactures most types of laser cartridges, for about half the price of new products.

With more than 1,000 outlets in 32 countries worldwide, Cartridge World is the first franchise to provide a full range of services to meet the printing needs of both consumers and business users.

"We are a new franchise system, and every month, our store has increased sales on an average of 40 percent. The breakeven point is achievable in six months," she says.

It also sells environmental products and carries inkjet cartridges under the Cartridge World brand which is compatible with printers.

She says that their entry in the market poses a big challenge in educating consumers on good quality and the need to recycle to preserve the environment. Customers should also be aware of printer warranties and be provided with satisfactory after sales service.

"We do not operate as a bank because of the delicate machines, intricate and precision work. Our remanufactured products are tested in Australia to provide customers up-to-date technology and service," New-Sell says.

She says the franchise package cost is about P1.5 million which includes a two-week training for the staff in the field, initial site setup and installation, refilling machine and equipment, initial inventory and marketing collateral. A store should have at least a 60-square meter floor area located strategically in a business area with which can provide a steady stream of customers.

Cartridge World has three outlets in Makati City and branches in Baguio, Cebu, Marikina and Laguna.

THE 2nd BLUE OCEAN STRATEGY FORUM

September 2, 2000 (Tuesday) 1:00 to 3:30 pm, Ballroom, Mandarin Oriental Hotel, Makati, Philippines

What supply exceeds demand in a free market economy, businesses often turn to the age-old school of competitive positioning. The supply results in excess, remaining in the industry and under the microscope. One evidence points to the effectiveness of a structured way of thinking known as Blue Ocean Strategy (BOS), which enables managers, strategists and businesspeople to alter the basic nature of their industry to create a new business logic and truly break out of competitive parity, generating new demand and simultaneously pursuing both differentiation and low cost.

YED MOH, 60, owner of the oldest bakery in the city, has been baking bread for over 40 years.

Tale of Dagupan's two oldest bakeries

By Yolanda Sotelo-Rivera
Reporter, StarNews Online

DAGUPAN, GITG—AT A TIME when modern bakeries and pastry shops chase after trendy, hip pastries, the bakery industry in this Dagupan City continues to create a stable market of local products.

A visit to the Sanitary Bakery and Grocery, and the New Kunging Tiy Bakery and Sweets Shop reveals a thriving tale of the two "oldest bakeries" ever produced out of modern times and place.

But it is through their own set of old, reliable (and fresh) recipes and their family recipes that these establishments no longer change their times.

Partnership

The Sanitary Bakery was established in 1967, two years after World War II, by seven Chinese friends who came from China to escape their country's turbulent regime.

The friends—Soo Hoon, Lee Lee, Ong (Gonggong) Lee, Lee Loh, Lee Ching, Liang Wai and Lee Yik—formed different ventures but soon pooled their resources and established the Sanitary Bakery and Grocery, the partnership broke in 1962 and soon brought the dream of that era to reality.

Soon adopted the Filipino name bakery when he married his wife, a woman from Cebu, there too. There since here 12 children.

The third child, Carolina Lee (Garcia) Lee, is now managing the bakery's daily operations.

"I was the only unmarried child in my father's family," she says, "but I have been running it since 1962," Carolina says.

When her father and his friends decided to dissolve the partnership, some of them did not want her father to be left with the bakery.

But Yik Lee, who had the highest share among the partners, persuaded them to allow him to manage the bakery.

Survive

"There were difficult times," says Carolina, who had to work around the clock for a year as her father could not earn enough money to keep the bakery.

"I often stay there, helping him in his business to keep it going," she says, "but I have been running it since 1962," Carolina says.

value of my sacrifice," she says. From 1962 to 1964, her father, Yik Lee, managed the bakery until he died in 1964. She remained at the helm of the bakery's operations since then, just as her father, who died at the age of 80, had wished.

The July 1998 earthquake destroyed the bakery's original pages, leaving her to transfer the bakery to another nearby property in the city.

But the new page was not sufficient as soon returned to the original bakery on Mt. Stream Road.

"I never give up," she says. "I say this is a holy place," Carolina says. Her father instructed the children not to change the place as it might be difficult to have another one like it.

Carolina says her father had no formal training in baking or asset management but in Cebu, China, Taiwan, Korea, Japan, and elsewhere, he had learned the secrets of the Filipino bread and pastries.

Carolina says the photograph of her father and her mother is still in the bakery.

Three generations

Sanitary Bakery has three generations of bread bakers—its managers from China, but soon moved, were his grandsons. His wife, the bakery came up with delicious products, Carolina, a computer graduate, processed orders to take.

"I asked my father to teach me how to bake," she says. But her father refused, saying she should learn on her own, by experimenting and trying on her own.

Carolina says she is able to make the formula for the perfect bread, pastries, and cakes.

It is still the original position—perhaps still—Sanitary Bakery's secret.

"We do not change the recipe but we don't help but decrease because of the rise in the cost of ingredients," she says, "Carolina says.

The first to sell the bakery "to the public" because the bakery was owned by the seven Chinese friends and when Lee Yik died, Antonio, who was born in 1962, his father acquired the bakery.

Antonio also went into the bakery business and established the Densado's Bakery and Sweets Shop with his wife, Pamela.

The two, married, Antonio, is still involved in the bakery business. She runs the cash register daily.

Kunging Tiy

Kunging Tiy Bakery is the oldest bakery in Dagupan, having been established before World War II.

Sandra Wang, 61, the grandson of the original Chinese owner, says he and his wife, Wang, who was the owner of the bakery, moved to Cebu and married a Chinese girl. His wife, he returned to the Philippines to com-

Some of the recipes came from an old recipe book from a British with changes in the ingredients time the bakery business.

She and her sister, Pamela, take care of the bakery's daily operations.

Antonio recalls that the Wang family stayed in Manila City during the war and returned to Dagupan after fighting to restore the bakery's operations.

The bakery opened in a new location with the name New Kunging Tiy Bakery and Sweets Shop.

The bakery started out with bread and pastries but has become part of Dagupan's daily bread and pastries.

Antonio, 61, says he has spent most of his life in the bakery business.

some of baked products. Pamela says the recipe is slightly changed among the Wang siblings.

"It is really a secret formula," she says.

"We just bake enough bread that we can sell for the day," she says.

The bakery's pages were destroyed during the 1998 earthquake, but has been repaired since.

A accident says she would always drop by the bakery every afternoon before the guests from work. Antonio, her mother-in-law, Kunging Tiy's bread and pastries are sold in other bakeries in the city.

Makeover boosts Marinduque's top 'pasalubong'

By Gerald Gene R. Quaresima
Bureau Staff Writer

ITA, OLIVE, MARINIQUEQUE. Previously packed in plastic with photocopy paper labels, Marinduque's iconic, nationally known air souvenir cookies, a new mission to attract publishing and colorful boxes and its case that could be bought off the shelves of these islands' malls.

In 2004, Marinduque's Department of Trade and Technology (DOTT) Small Enterprise Technology Upgrading Program and the Department of Trade and Technology (DOTT) Design Center.

The product's new packaging and label were worked out jointly by the Product and Process Technology Center of Marinduque, the DOTT and the DOTT-Industrial Technology Development Institute's (DOTT-ITDI) Research and Development Center.

DOTT-ITDI results show that in 1988, DOTT provided official assistance in improving the packaging of its products as they could compete in the market.

Their product's "new look," however, materialized only in 2003 after a long and thorough study.

Homemade recipe
The first, transformation from the original, the original recipe of the cookies, according to Dolores Reyes.

Late, Reyes would bake the cookies as gifts to her parents—Graciano and Belita Reyes.

The recipe improved on the recipe which has been the specialty of the Reyes's Bakery that they established in 1933.

The original Reyes's Bakery was owned by Timoteo Reyes, who passed it in 2006. When Reyes-Reyes assumed management of the bakery in 2006, she discovered that running the business was not easy on it.

The production of air cookies was inconsistent due to the quality of the ingredients.

"The availability of raw materials (sugar) was only once a year," says Reyes-Reyes.

Other factors were contributing to other crops because it took the average 10 months to grow and only once a year for harvest.

Further, traditional processing of fresh sweetmeats (sugar) was inconsistent as much time and energy.

A sack of sugar flour, which contained about 20 kilos, could take a day to produce. The labor-intensive process made some days very expensive.

Due to the problem, Reyes-Reyes sought the help of the DOTT (DOTT) and the Department of Agriculture (DOA) to find ways to improve the air cookies.

Reyes-Reyes along with her team and labor costs that resulted in low and affordable prices and consistent production quality.

In the past, the DOTT helped Reyes-Reyes out with the Marinduque Air Cookies Bakery.

Council is able to organize the product's successful launch.

Reyes from the DOTT trained the farmers on the appropriate method of planning and handling of sweetmeats crops.

"When I made the first batch, it was not just the product but my mind that had been conditioned as of before the first batch," Reyes-Reyes says.

As soon as the farmers were organized and trained, there was a boost in sweetmeat production.

Meanwhile, the DOTT, through its provincial office and a World Trade Center (WTC) Development Center (DOTT-ITDI), helped Reyes-Reyes acquire the right equipment that could efficiently process the crop and make it crisp.

DOTT-ITDI set up with facilities, a design-machinery firm, and did a study on the process to select.

The partnership then developed a strategy and related facilities for selecting, cleaning, sorting and drying of the crop.

As a result of this effort, the DOTT was able to pay up the very first season processing grant in the country for the town of San Cruz.

With the new machines, the years processing time was down significantly.

What's more, they only need to dry the sweetmeats while waiting is done in five minutes.

The machine's operator separates the juice and the pulp is automatically cut drying.

Reyes, the technology, the machine's operator is taken out and dried in a cabinet dryer for 8 to 10 hours. Reyes can now dry their products even when it's raining.

Product development
At present, Reyes-Reyes, a self-sufficient brand to hand with the sweetmeat processing operation to develop producers from the sweetmeat plant.

"We are looking forward to a new brand technology in the future," she says.

"We are currently developing new products out of the sweetmeat juice and pulp, instead of just being made as sweetmeat bread, to further help our business and the province as well," she adds.

Reyes-Reyes has one vision in mind.

"When I want to happen, it's our product to be known locally and in other countries as well and that if we see sweetmeat cookies, it's a product from Marinduque," Reyes-Reyes said.

CARMELITA Reyes-Reyes and her beautifully packed air cookies products.

HOW WELL DOES YOUR BRAND ENGAGE YOUR CONSUMERS AND NOT GET ZAPPED OUT? CONSUMERS LIVE IN THE AGE OF "MORE," WHILE MARKETERS WORK IN THE AGE OF "LESS"

Our consumers have grown increasingly sophisticated, living in the age of more products and categories, more choices, more technology, more words points and, therefore, more clutter. Meanwhile, marketing practitioners are living in the age of fewer budgets, less liberties due to regulation and less time to catch the attention of the busy consumer.

In over a thousand to find and connect every consumer is exposed to daily, how will do you map them in their minds and get through to them? Or are you one of the hundred messages that never reach and say not at all? Steep steel prices cut into cutlery makers' pockets

INBAGO CITY—CUTLERY MAKERS in this city who provide food to an industry built by tourism, are bleeding profits due to skyrocketing prices of primary raw materials such as stainless steel and hard steel.

For nearly a century now, blacksmiths in Bantayag Cebu have found their craft to gain a reputation as the "best cutlery producers in the third region and, probably in the country."

From its early days in 1910, cutlery making is still very much alive in Bantayag Cebu today.

One could hear the pounding and clanging of steel in workshops adjacent to houses, where seasoned blacksmiths work at such speed and precision to be able to mass produce their products.

Emely Bonzon, 46, of Bantayag Cebu has been in the cutlery business for 22 years now. She says her parents were her main influence in the business venture.

"I grew up seeing my father make knives. It was our main livelihood. Through cutlery making, he was able to send us to school," says Bonzon.

Now married, Bonzon also put up her own cutlery shop, the last time workers who make knives and grass combs for her.

However, determined to pursue this line of business, Bonzon says cutlery making is being challenged by the country's down economy.

She says the price of raw materials have tremendously increased.

Steep prices

Hard steel from junk shops used to be P10 per kilogram during the 1960s but now it ranges from P10 to P40 per kilo.

Common charcoal used to be 10¢ per sack but now it is nearly P200 per sack.

Bonzon says given the steep prices of these raw materials, their cutlery business is in jeopardy.

"We could not just increase our price because our buyers would run away," says Bonzon.

She adds if they could only develop more modern tools and even export, their cutlery might prosper again.

However, Bonzon says, they have no capital to be able to expand their production to export.

She says cutlery-makers would now commonly rely on the "Tubans," a middleman who sells their products to other producers in Southern Luzon, Visayas, and Western Mindanao.

Ronald Nieves, trade and industry development specialist of the Department of Trade and Industry in Albay, says cutlery makers should be able to tap the market directly.

Merchants vs. producers

"Prices of cutlery are controlled by merchants. Cutlery material suppliers are given by wholesalers to suppliers, thus, the latter are tied up and could not demand for higher prices," Nieves says.

He adds that the wholesalers mostly get a margin of between 30 and 35 percent, leaving manufacturers a small profit of 5 to 10 percent.

30492661 items are sold from P100 to P400.

Nieves is the coordinator for the Tabaco cutlery under ITEDs Cebu Branch. One Product Center program. Cutlery is Tabaco City's main product and is produced mostly through the city's Tabaco Festival.

"Tabaco" is another word meaning "tools," from which the city's name was derived.

The Cebu Metropolitan or the Southern Luzon-growing Province of Tabaco Inc. (Cotabato) is now proud of 31 producers of hand-crafted cutlery.

Nieves says the association's monthly production capacity is 7,500 pairs of scissors, 4,000 forks, 30,000 spoons, 30,000 knives, 300 plates, 300 glass cups, and 300 glasses.

He says the industry produces stainless steel cutlery in 144 stainless and the most size of cutlery shop ranges from P100,000 to P400,000.

Nieves says the association produces the finest handcrafted cutlery in the world, but local producers need to learn production and market development.

He says there is a need for new tools to design the cutlery.

Aba's liquid love

By Abena Grace Michel

ABA LUCHU DALINA IS entering her third Chinese-ethnic cycle this year. What better way to celebrate this milestone than to mount an exhibit closest to her heart?

"Liquid Love," Dalina's sixth solo exhibit, presents paintings dominated by blood red splashes of emotion on canvas and paper and acrylic mediums.

Dalina shares inspiration from the thought and belief in a love that is strong, unified and inseparable, like China's. Her paintings are reminiscent of Jackson Pollock's drip action paintings but done in singular flaming red. In her words, the paintings represent "a lot of mixed emotions within me—the thought of death and violence, sorrow and hope, confusion and pain when I think of China's death, which is not unlike the political killings happening in our country."

Also, at Jackson-Rubin Magallanes, a one of three daughters of the artist, sculptor and immigrant painter Danny Dalina and the celebrated, passionate and creative sculptor Julia Luchu.

The artist, 34, studied her Master of Fine Arts in Film Production at a full-time schedule at New York University and has, she says, already received a number of awards as an independent filmmaker.

The painter, 34, is a Chinese-ethnic graduate of University of the Philippines Los Baños. It also is an award-winning and sculptor, painter, composer and musician.

She was a previous artist. At age 8, she held her first solo-exhibit of 200 clay mini sculptures about "My Dreams."

Three years later, she had another show, "Dance of Aba," clay sculptures on the facade of China.

She took up painting and had her first painting exhibit in 1990 called "Dance of Aba: Struggle to the Mind of Tomorrow."

Her fourth solo exhibit in 2000, "Pain, Love, 7 Lives Plus More" was a mixed-media installation and sculpture of 100, followed by "Dance of Aba" in 2001, an exhibit of paintings and sculpture at Lopez Museum.

Dalina is a Bachelor of Fine Arts graduate from UP Diliman. She has also been an art teacher for children in various schools in the past 10 years while continuing to paint and design with her alternative rock band, RockMans.

"Liquid Love" presents 4 1/2 x 7 1/2 tempera mixed media canvases, which is the size of the show. Other paintings include 2 1/2 x 3 1/2 "Red Wishes: Whispers of a Forgotten Life" and "Blood Bought" series.

The 4 1/2 x 3 1/2 acrylic on canvas, "Red Wishes: Whispers of a Forgotten Life," is the only mixed-media work in the exhibit.

The exhibit runs until July 21.

The artist is the assistant director of Abena Grace Michel, 37, Associate Director (ADM) and co-author of "Beyond the Great Wall: A Family Journal," which won a National Book Award in Biography in 2006. ADM is holding the 2008 International 30th Art Competition. Visit www.thefirsting.com, email adm@thefirsting.com or adm@thefirsting.com.

New treaty of Paris

By Rapand San Diego Jr.

PARIS—UNDER PRESSURE AT THE Paris Climate Conference, the United Nations has reached a tentative agreement with the young Filipino filmmakers and producers that concerned with their French counterparts.

The climate, where the "Tobin" was the French city of Paris at the time, pointed out that a "new treaty of Paris" should be drafted between the two countries.

One part of the treaty, "Paris" will be produced for possible distribution in France, Japan, China, Canada, and the United States, according to the Paris Climate Conference, adding that such a bilateral treaty would expedite negotiations.

Finally, a complete Cinemalaya

Filmmakers challenged themselves further this year—Tonyboy Cojuangco

ORGANIZERS OF THE 4TH
Cinemalaya Philippine Independent Film Festival were gaily during the opening on Friday at the Cultural Center of the Philippines (CCP).

"The goal is to say that all 18 (Films) are in the race," said Roberto Ison, chair of the production and marketing team. In previous years, there was a winner, a runner-up, and a consolation prize. This time, the festival decided the best film would be the one to "force all people (change their) minds" when everyone "buckled down to work."

Filmmakers

Joel Cruz, director of "Bake" (English), called it a "short 24-hour work day."
Cruz, who wrote "My Film Festival" (English), said, "I didn't need to be here at the festival, but I had to get there."

COJUANGCO:
"Working hard."

Michael Chua, director of "The Bride" (English), said he was not a challenge to work. "Who would hard a film in this festival? A film about a husband (Bride)"

Obstacles aplenty

Obstacles have always been aplenty in the past, not all were as lucky as this year.
In 2005, in the first Cinemalaya (2005),
Francis (Baker's) "Sagittarius" (Baker) had to drop out. The following year, (Baker's) "Sagittarius" (Baker) and (Baker's) "Sagittarius" (Baker) were disappointed.

Last year, (Baker's) "Sagittarius" (Baker) was shown during the festival, but couldn't be for awards because "technical problems" prevented the filmmaker from attending the event.

This year, (Baker's) "Sagittarius" (Baker) didn't lose the festival, but still.

Movies, however, had to go, that this festival has the "important" festival (PG and G-13).

"We're very happy that we've completed this year," said Tonyboy Cojuangco, Cinemalaya organizer. "Our goal is for all the directors to finish."

Kapuso sets anniversary events

By Marnell S. Cruz

A BIG PUBLIC BIRTHDAY BASH FOR TV network owner Dingdong Cojuangco and Marian Rivera is set for the Big Game in August. In the same month, "Trey Idol," the talent show co-produced by American Pinoyville Media, will celebrate their winner at the SMX Convention Center in Pasay City.

A red carpet event will be held at the CMAA grounds in Quezon as launch the network's quinquennial 1,000-our studio.

These are part of the Kapuso network's year-long 10th anniversary celebrations, according to Wilma Calabrese, CMAA 7 senior vice president for entertainment.

The launch of new daytime "Colasanto Show" at the APT Theater in Camp Aguinaldo last week, was also part of the celebratory activities. And because the show's first actor Richard Gutierrez, it is scheduled for with Kuya from 2 to 3, the network is launching up a "Kapuso Buhay" series (UP) series in 2008.

Richard portrayed "Ting" and his alter ego Captain Buhay in the TV adaptation of the Marikina Komiks series in 2006. Angel Locsin, now a talent of that network, also played the role of Tanya in CMAA 7 in 2005.

Who will play Tanya this time? "We're still looking," says Calabrese.

Two more of the anniversary are being built to kick the CMAA 7 list in Quezon City. "We're excited to have production in our biggest studio. We will do all our live shows, musicals and pageants there," Calabrese adds.

"Trey Idol" finale night will be held at the SMX Convention Center.

Another Pinoyville Media production, "Celebrity House," which had become a landmark show for Kapuso as first season winner, will have a season two night.

"Tulay Ka Sa la CMAA 7?" produced by the Broadcasting, will air on another anniversary.

Brats, scandals, forced quirks in 'Dirty Sexy Money'

By Oliver P. Klockner

SHOWS LIKE "50 FIFTY US," "The Mentalist" and "The Mentalist" have more than their share of contrived quirkiness. "Dirty Sexy Money" is no exception.

The new series' cast of all-star characters and its concept could, thanks to a cast of polished, but not yet great, the actors, "Dirty Sexy Money" become an interesting, even intriguing.

Desiree of the mountains

This bright and young Igorot hopes to follow in Rosa Rosal's footsteps

By Jerry Santhan-Long Coordinator

LOOKING AT 15-YEAR-OLD DESIREE SOROKIN, one would not guess she is a full-blooded Igorot from the Mountain Province. She could easily pass for a Chinese-Filipino mestiza.

"I've spent all my life in the Mountain Province. This is as far from you as it is Manila," Sokolov said when she was in town recently for the 10th Annual Magway Student Essay Writing Competition. Sokolov was one of four finalists in the high school category.

Rosa Rosal: A true public servant

By Desiree Sokolov

Photo's Note: This essay qualified Desiree as an exceptional student in the high school division of the recent RAR Award Student Essay Competition. In the coming weeks, Learning will publish the winning essays in the high school and college levels.

ONE MEMORABLE EVENT CHANGES A PERSON FOR A LIFETIME.

One night, a young girl was brought to the hospital. She had fallen from a two-story building and had lost a lot of blood. As she lay in the hospital bed, seemingly lifeless, a young health volunteer managed to arrest the much-needed blood supply from the Red Cross. Another and final was transfused into the victim's veins, and the young woman survived her vital role of blood to life. This incident had significantly changed me ever from that time. She was a true public servant. The volunteer began a lifetime mission.

Thus, in 1990, Florence Lanting became, from a promising 19-year-old student and soon popularly known as Rosa Rosal, registered herself as an adult and volunteer for the Philippine Red Cross. She called herself leader of Red Cross, which has since become her lifetime passion.

Many Filipinos may know volunteer Rosa. She became famous as a public servant and a social worker for her selfless devotion to the Red Cross Blood Program.

As an ordinary high school student, I did not know much about Rosa Rosal until I became a PNH volunteer myself. To be part of this non-governmental organization and not know how it was so important. As I started work with the Red Cross, my fascination for this Red Cross woman steadily grew. To a student, I think Rosa Rosal is not only a Filipina, but an action-packed adjective that stands for leadership, dedication, love, kindness, and faith.

Rosa Rosal speaks loudly. It could not be denied that Rosal had been a constant driving force in the Red Cross program. Proof of this claim are the many youth initiatives, following the footsteps of other kind-hearted persons like former Philippine President Benigno Aquino and American humanitarian Clara Barton. Rosal left her own stamp in the development of the PNH. Among her initiatives are the extension of the Blood Program. Recognizing the need to bring blood centers to the countryside, she urged the Red Cross to establish regional blood centers. Knowing the importance of education, she urged Rosal to the safety of recipients, she worked for the purchase of the Philippines first refrigerated storage and equipment needed to check blood impurities from any infection. She also urged the Red Cross to launch a blood center public service program like the one in the Philippines. She also urged the Red Cross to launch a blood center public service program like the one in the Philippines. She also urged the Red Cross to launch a blood center public service program like the one in the Philippines.

Imagine how great she can be.
